Surely "Up To" Mead Now.

When that masterpiece of "open letters" written by Dr. Mead to Mr. Haggood of Peru, aroused the wrath of the state newspaper editors, there was a feeling on the part of everybody that the champion of woman would refuse to stay quelled by such a volley of blank cartridges. Lo, those fears have been realized, and take shape in another column on this page.

After the "open letter" appeared, the Herald took the ground, as it had in the past and does at present, that the people have a right to know how a candidate for governor has secured his nomination. The people have a right to know what the candidate spends on his campaign. They elect him, if he is successful, and there is no legitimate reason why any candidate should feel adverse to making the facts known.

Mr. Haggood and everybody else is entitled to this much information and undoubtedly Dr. Mead will see the wisdom of publishing the statement and thus repaying a point in his armor where the words of opponents are now penetrating a little.

Whether the Peruvian agitator can expect serious consideration as a gubernatorial candidate is a matter for conjecture and a smile, perhaps. On the other hand, he is a citizen of Vermont and should not be treated lightly. Mr. Haggood has been looked upon as eccentric and has done many things to accentuate that idea. His latest stunt of this nature is the reply to Dr. Mead's "open letter," just received by the state newspapers, in it Mr. Haggood proposes that the candidates, including Mr. Hagwood and himself "mutually establish a fund of say $1000 for the offering of a reward of $100 each to the first ten individuals who shall furnish satisfactory evidence of the corrupt use of money in the coming campaign by any of the candidates or their agents in the line of buying up editorials."

This, and several other things, does Mr. Haggood really think that the Vermont race for the governorship needs any such system of watch-dogging, or is he only trying to have a little fun with Mead? The idea is a novel one from a news standpoint and would make a highly interesting story that would set the nation agog if worked out and found practicable. A candidate for governor might inaugurate a little "corruption work," on the side and let his agents collect the reward after their services were completed.

The sage of Peru is nothing if not strenuous, but often spoils a good thing by prolonging the sensation and covering up the meat of it. There was wisdom and justice in his first proposal, but his fertile imagination is growing too rapidly now, from all indications. The sage it a good fellow, however, and if he only intends his latest contribution as a jest, let us pass it up as a good one.—Rutland Herald.

G. R. Baker plowed several acres of land the last week in March in Shelton and brought in a pile of very good potatoes that had remained in the ground all winter. Last Saturday he sowed a field of oats and a field of barley.

Dreamland has a new Edison picture to-day. "A Victim of Bridge" is a society drama. It is the latest story from the pen of Edward W. Townsend, and is a far cry from his famous "Little Sister." It is entirely different in tone from any of his previous pictures. Its characters belong apparently to the circle made famous as New York's "Four Hundred."

Full houses was the rule last night at the Bijou. A good program of pictures and an especially catchy song were by Roy Welsh was the attraction. "Patricia and the Slave" is one of the finest Roman dramas presented in recent months in the city. The settings, the players and scenery are all so realistic and so near what one imagines old Rome to have looked like that the picture doubly interests.

The Barre baseball team, which was organized this spring, will play the first game of the season Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock with the Concord community team. The game will be played at the Berlin street grounds, which the Barre team has engaged for the season. The grounds have been fixed up in good shape and bleachers have been erected to accommodate 300 people. At 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the two teams, headed by the Barre Citizens' team, will parade from Depot square to the grounds. It is the purpose of the Barre team to put up some good ball here this summer and they want the co-operation of the public to assist them financially by turning out to the games. Games have been arranged with some of the best teams in the state. Arrangements are being made to have the team present at all of the games that are played on Saturday afternoons.

Without doubt, the finest program of moving pictures shown at the Comique for many a day was shown there last night and will be again given tonight. It is hard to say just which is the best picture, as one is a splendid drama and the other an excellent comedy. "The Girl Teller" the drama, has one of the most consistent and clever stories, really a little above the usual seen in moving pictures, and from the moment we see her entering the infirmary's home in the guise of a governess, but really only to rob him, and then slowly learn to regard her employer with something like affection, but refuses to rob or finally marry him, because she has a spark of honor left in her soul; until finally she departs untroubled, the only thing she steals is his picture. Our hearts go out to this poor little outcast that probably never knew a mother's love or had a guiding hand before to set her right. Things are looking different since Dan Rosta returned, and he assures us that only the best pictures made will be shown at the Comique.
